

A Paradigm Shift in Computing

Does your IT give you the flexibility you need to have a business...and a life?

We New Zealanders are world renowned for our innovation and hard work! The country's full of small to medium sized businesses, just like yours, all determined to succeed - and equally determined to maintain a strong work/life balance.

Although IT is a necessary part of running a business, unreliable software, endless updates and frustrations caused by a lack of flexibility and the ever changing technologies can tie us all down. At best it just causes confusion and at worst it can soak up endless hours and dollars. Effective IT enables significant cost reduction through greater operational efficiency, but more importantly will give you the freedom to have the lifestyle you want.

Imagine having:

- Your IT network, constantly monitored by 20 qualified technicians so it is completely secure and reliable
- A 100% reliable back up system that you don't even have to think about and you know will work just when you need it
- Remote access, 24/7, anywhere in the World
- Endless storage capacity
- Freedom from capital costs
- Freedom from software licensing
- The flexibility to grow with you
- Freedom from endless software updates and backups
